

PRESS RELEASE

FEH OPENS NEW OFFICE IN DELAFIELD, WI

FEH Associates Inc. announces the opening of their fourth architectural office located in Delafield, WI. The Delafield office will serve Wisconsin and its surrounding states. The Delafield office joins the Sioux City, Des Moines and Dubuque, Iowa offices of FEH in providing Architecture, Structural Engineering and Interior Design services throughout the upper Midwest.

"In an economy when companies are consolidating, closing or cutting back, FEH is growing with our newest location in Delafield. We plan to grow the office as project opportunities develop," said Dennis Sharp, AIA, FEH President.

FEH's new office will be managed by Gregory Baum, AIA, LEED AP. Baum brings 29 years of experience in architectural design throughout the region with a vast knowledge of educational, cultural, industrial, commercial and municipal projects.

"We are excited about the addition of Gregg to our staff," said Sharp. "He brings a wealth of experience in the design of projects that represent the core of FEH's design services. Our shared values of client-focused design, strong service-oriented ethic and sustainable design perspective will provide a great foundation to build upon. Adding to that Gregg's 20 years of working in the Tri-state area, we are very excited about this "fresh start" in the Delafield market."

Founded in Minnesota in 1898 by Andrew H. Foss specializing in the design of railroad depots, today, FEH has 31 employees providing professional design services throughout Iowa, the neighboring states and beyond. FEH offers a full range of architectural, structural engineering and interior design services across several project types including: education, cultural, religious, museum, municipal, government, libraries, recreation, corporate/commercial and historic restoration.
